I hope that you have been able to empathise with the situations of the people around you. Since I can't find the solution this way, I decided to go into the world of the internet, which is said to contain a lot of information. In real life people are not so empathetic and do not perceive the feelings of others, but through the internet I realised that it is much worse. This is what I found because instead of helping me it generated more doubts.

My search attempts are to no avail. I do not understand anything. After soaking up the wisdom of the elders, I realised how blind the world is. So now I need to activate the other senses, sometimes we are not aware of the privilege we have to see and yet we are not able to observe and internalise the situations that others go through. And you, what are you able to see?

I have come to this place where I thought everything would be easier than in our place. That's what I thought, but it's not. In my 30s I still see people insulted in the streets and violence because of sexual orientation.
How much violence is behind ignorance!

I am glad to know that there are still people who bother to get to know the collective. Wanting to get to know more of the world, I have spoken to older people on my journey, who have taught me that the key to life is to appreciate and listen to the wisdom of older people. Why do we continue to leave them aside?
