

After continuing to observe how we still don't give up our seats on the bus, making jokes about people who are not like you, not seeing that everyone has wonderful abilities.

Desperate and despondent I went home, confident that a good rest would provide the solution. Sometimes it is simpler than we think.

