

Hey Red,

I need to talk with you about an important decision. Yesterday I've talked to my therapist and we concluded I'm doing well :) The program has really worked. The anxiety attacks are becoming more and more rare and I'm able to leave the house again. I'm talking to my peers at the university and I think I'm even making friends! This is great news for me, but we've also talked about quitting Monomazi. It was great help, but I no longer need the help. I am not alone anymore. Of course I'm going to miss all of you very much. You've been real good friends to me! But I know this decision is not easy for you, Red. So let's talk it over before the game tonight? Meet me at the bridge at 7:00 PM? Then we can have one last night of fun gaming. I might even change into a special outfit just before we start. Pretty sure I know who did it anyway ;)

Love,

Lis <3